Normal Department	20
Preparatory Department	196
Total	216

Forty-one of the youngest pupils residing in Jefferson City, owing to the crowded state of the rooms, early in the fall term, were sent to the public schools, and consequently their names do not appear in the Catalogue.

DEPARTMENTS.

As yet, only a Preparatory Department, and a Normal Department, have been in operation.

Other departments will be organized as soon as there is a demand for them.

The Normal Department comprises a course of four years.

COURSE OF STUDY.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

Spelling, Reading, Phonics, Mental Arithmetic, Practical Arithmetic, Geography, Penmanship, Map Drawing, Vocal Culture, Elocution, Drawing, Vocal Music, Orthography and Composition.

NORMAL DEPARTMENT.

First Year.—Orthography, Reading, Phonics, Mental Arithmetic, Practical Arithmetic, Geography, English Grammar, United States History, Physical Geography, Map Drawing, Penmanship, Drawing, Vocal Culture, Elocution, Composition and Vocal Music, and also a Weekly Drill in the Art and Practice of Teaching. The course of study for the second, third and fourth years has not yet been determined.

LECTURES.

A course of lectures will be given by Judge A. Krekel, on Civil Government, and also lectures by the Principal and other gentlemen, on the Theory and Art of Teaching, and various other subjects.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES AND INSTRUCTION.

There are devotional exercises every school day, which all the students are required to attend. There is a Sunday school, and also a Moral and Religious Lecture every Sunday evening.

There are two weekly prayer meetings in the Institute, one on Saturday evening, conducted by the Principal, and one on Sunday evening conducted by the students.

LIBRARY.

The Library consists of four or five hundred volumes. The students are permitted to draw books every week, subject to suitable rules and regulations.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

The Excelsior Society is designed for young men, and admits any male student of suitable age and attainments. It holds regular meetings once in two weeks.

The Star Society is designed for young ladies, and admits any young lady of proper age and attainments. Its meetings are held once in two weeks.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

All applicants must present satisfactory evidence of good moral character. Males must be at least sixteen years of age, and females at least fourteen years of age. However, persons under these ages may be admitted provided they have a knowledge of the fundamental rules of Arithmetic, can read in the Fourth Reader, write legibly, and possess some knowledge of Geography. Persons of whatever attainments, those that can not even read, provided they are over the ages specified, may be admitted.

Candidates for admission to the Normal Department must possess a good knowledge of Arithmetic as far as percentage, must be able to analyze and parse a simple sentence, and have a good knowledge of Geograpby.

GOVERNMENT.

Students will be taught that all persons are under law; the divine law and the civil law; and that their interests as students demand that they should comply with proper rules and regulations. While the government of the school will be kind and parental, it will be strict and just. Students will be required to observe proper hours for study, and they will not be allowed to waste their time in running about, or to expose themselves to temptation in frequenting saloons or other improper places. It will be the aim of the teachers to lead the students to adopt right principles of action, to form right habits, and to do right at all times and in all places. The teachers will earnestly labor so to train the students that they will make noble men and women, so that when they go forth from this Institute they will be richly qualified for usefulness.

TEXT-BOOKS.

The books now in use are Sanders' Union Speller, Sanders' Union Readers, Felter's Arithmetic, Guyot's Geography, Kerl's Grammar, Spencerian Copy Books, and Robinson's Algebra.

Any of these books can be bought in Jefferson City.

BOARDING.

Young ladies can be furnished with rooms in the Institute Building, and board at the Boarding Hall. The Boarding Hall is within two hundred feet of the Institute. A few young men can be furnished with rooms near the Institute. The rooms both for young ladies and young men will be furnished with stoves, tables, wash-stands, chairs, looking glasses, bedsteads and bedding.

Young ladies who occupy rooms in the Institute, will be under the direct supervision of the teachers.

EXPENSES.

An admission fee of $1 per term, $3 per year. This small charge is to help defray the expense of ink, pens, crayons, sweeping, cleaning, and fuel.

Board in the Boarding Hall, including room, fuel and lights, $2 50 per week.

Board in private families, including room, fuel and lights, from $2 to $3 50 per week.

Washing from $2 to $3 per month, or from 75 cents to $1 per dozen.

CALENDAR.

The School Year consists of forty weeks, and is divided into three terms; the Fall Term, the Winter Term, and the Spring Term. The Fall Term begins on the first Monday of September, and continues sixteen weeks. The Winter Term begins on the first Monday of January, unless it is the first day of the year; if so, it begins on the day following, and continues twelve weeks. The Spring Term begins on the first Monday of April, and continues twelve weeks.

There is a vacation during the holidays of one or two weeks, a vacation of one week between the Winter Term and Spring Term, and a vacation of nine or ten weeks after the Spring Term.

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

The idea of Lincoln Institute originated with the 62d regiment U. S. Colored Infantry, while in Texas, January, 1866. This regiment soon contributed $5,000 to carry out their idea. The soldiers of the 65th regiment afterwards added $1,379 to this sum. The only conditions made to these gifts were, that the school should be established in Missouri, and that it should be open to colored people.

The Board of Trustees of Lincoln Institute was organized in Jefferson City, June 25th, 1866, and consisted of ten members. The Board commenced with a fund of $6,000, which, in three months, was increased to $8,500. Of this amount, $2,000 came from the Freedmen's Bureau, and was especially designated to be used in building.

The educational work of Lincoln Institute began at Jefferson City on the 17th of September, 1866, with two pupils in an old building with two rooms, each twenty-two feet square. The school filled up till it became crowded, and an assistant was needed. Mr. Festus Reed became assistant and taught five months during the year. Mr. R. B. Foster was Principal during this year and the succeeding one.

The third year Lincoln Institute was taught by Mr. W. H. Payne, a graduate of Adrain College, Michigan, and his sister, Miss Fannie Payne.

On the 19th of January, 1870, a convention of those interested in the education of the colored people of this State was held in Jefferson City. The convention presented to the General Assembly the draft of a bill to endow Lincoln Institute as a State Normal School for training colored teachers. The bill was passed by the Legislature without amendment, and was approved by Gov. McClurg, February 14, 1870. An act supplementary and explanatory was approved March 16th. By these acts Lincoln Institute was constituted a State Normal School for training colored teachers for public schools, yet not so as to destroy the articles of incorporation, or prevent other departments in the Institution. The sum of $5,000 per year, payable in semi-annual installments, was appropriated from the State Treasury for said Normal School, when the trustees should certify that they held in trust for said school, buildings and grounds of a value not less than $15,000.

At this time the Board had on hand $7,000. During the year, Messrs. Beal and Lane, agents of the Institute, raised $2,000. The Western Sanitary Commission gave $2,000, and the Freedmen's Bureau gave $6,000 in addition to the $2,000 previously given; thus increasing the value of the property of the Institute to $17,000.

The Lincoln Institute Building was completed June, 1871, and during the past year has been occupied by the school. The building is a neat, substantial brick structure, sixty by seventy feet, three stories high, with basement; constructed according to the most modern and approved plans, heated by furnaces, and supplied with flues in all the rooms, so as to meet contingencies in the derangement of the warming apparatus, with large halls and suitable recitation rooms connected with each. A frame building near the Institute is occupied as a boarding house for the students.

The following is the approximate value of the property of Lincoln Institute:

Purchase money of 365 acres of land within two and a half miles of Jefferson City	$5,500
Purchase money of Institute lot—two acres	600
Boarding house and lot—three acres	2,400
Cost of Institute Building and other improvements and equipments	25,000
Total	$33,500
